Cast Bios

Luca J. Pellegrine (Sal)

This is Luca's first show at Village Players and his second time performing on stage. It has been a great first-time experience in this theater, and he wants to thank the cast, and especially the director, Russ, for giving him the chance to do this and helping him grow as an actor. There was never a dull moment, and he owes it to the people in and out of the theater who supported him along the way. Thanks Mom.

Emily Judkins (Georgia)

Emily is always happy for the chance to pretend to be someone else. She would like to thank all the little people who made this show possible. The big people who made it possible aren't too bad either.

Toni Urquhart (Paula)

Last seen on stage in 2017 in the VP production of Biloxi Blues, Toni is excited to return to the stage in the role of Paula Paterno. Toni is a longtime actress with the Village Players, making her debut in The VP's South Pacific in 2001, she has been in several shows throughout the years. Outside of acting she enjoys hiking, surfing and spending time with family. She wishes to thank her mother for introducing her to the Village Players Theater, and encouraging her love of acting, her husband Jeff and their children for their love and support, and her many friends here at the Village Players.

Anna Jortikka (Holly)

Anna is delighted to be performing in her fifth Village Players production. She is a microbiologist from Alton, New Hampshire. She loves to sing, act, and go on outdoor adventures. Previous shows include Puffs, Nonsense, Laughing Stock, Once Upon a Mattress, You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown, Seussical the Musical, Godspell, and The Music Man.

Max Gehring (Detective Collins)

Max Gehring, on stage as Detective Collins, is participating in their second summer show with Village Players, the first being Laughing Stock last summer in the role of Henry, the overworked set designer and costumer of a summer theatre based in NH. When performing as a member of the police force, Max is looking forward to playing a super-serious detective and is most excited to get to carry around a "big gun" in the role of Detective Collins. Recently, Max is proud to have directed a play from a series titled Dying with Laughter at Village Players and is curious about how else their energy can be put toward play productions on the VP stage in the near future. Until then, Max wishes the audience enjoy Ladies in Lingerie - just don't stare too much, it's rude!

Bob Tuttle (Eugene)

Bob Tuttle has been with the Village Players since 2009. He's been in productions such as Don't Drink the Water, Anne Frank, and played the mute king in the musical production of Once Upon a Mattress, which he says was one of his greatest performances. For this production he plays the part of Eugene, a pompous and pretentious actor from Boston. Enjoy the show, he knows the cast is.

Jeannie LeGrow (Ronnie)

This is Jeannie's second performance with the Village Players. She would like to thank her family for their continued support and love.
